The Animal Specialty Hospital of Florida is growing!

We're seeking experienced emergency veterinarians and small-animal internal medicine and cardiology specialists to join our team.

ASH is a state-of-the-art, 7,500+ square foot, 24-hour emergency/critical care and referral specialty hospital. We have grown rapidly to become one of the largest and most comprehensive specialty hospitals in southwest Florida.

Our exceptional staff includes specialists in surgery, internal medicine, critical care, cardiology, ophthalmology, dermatology and physical rehabilitation with an experienced staff of emergency doctors.

We emphasize a collaborative and team-based approach, and our specialists, emergency doctors and referring vets work exceptionally close together. We pride ourselves on having a highly skilled – yet uniquely compassionate – technical staff. Our patient care, client service and communication with referring veterinarians are unparalleled.

ASH is equipped with a DACVECC-managed, dedicated ICU with TEG and long-term ventilation capabilities, ultrasound, digital radiology, endoscopy suite, physical rehabilitation unit, in-house blood bank, isolation unit and a sterile surgical suite including three operating rooms. Full, in-house lab capability includes CBC, chemistry, coagulation (PT/aPTT and TEG) and blood gas analyzer.

We desire clinicians with strong medical acumen, technical proficiency and leadership skills. Internship-trained clinicians with three or more years of experience in emergency medicine and/or critical care are desired for our emergency positions. Although we prefer board-certified internal medicine and cardiology specialists, we will also consider board-eligible candidates. Prior experience in a multi-specialty referral hospital is required. ASH will encourage and provide continuing education and training.
